of the studies that stated the use of a particular guideline, the majority followed the who-choice guideline (23.08 of total papers), and 57.7 did not state the use of a guideline at all.