get to know your stall owners, it's a good way to practice your chinese but they'll also throw you discounts and freebies when they're in a good mood.

after a brief standoff, the occupants of the residence exited and were arrested.

i encourage all of you to do the same if they hear that the new flavors are not appreciated they might go back to the old ones, or at least sell them in addition to the new ones